PERSON-CENTERED HEALTH AND THE RESILIENT ADOLESCENT

Centered Medicine international Academy will see the competition of researchers under 35, who will present a work at the Congress: “Person-centered health and the resilient adolescent”, the first congress in the world on this theme. An international jury, which constitutes the International Olympic Committee of Science Olympics, chaired by Prof. Claudio Violato, co-chair of the Congress, will award, as Olympic Champions of Science-2025, the first three researchers who will present winning works for originality, validity and scientific innovation for humanity, on the themes of the Congress. At the same time, the Olympic Committee will award the first three works of Italian school students engaged, for the first time, in scientific research on the Universal Declaration of the Youth Rights and Duties and on the values of existence for the dignity of man. The International Congress is preceded by two pre-conference courses in Person-centered Medicine and Medical Education

The associated event for junior researchers of Italian high schools is School Science Olympics – Italy 2025.

The Science Olympics aims to be a stimulus for young researchers to carry out scientific research of universal value for the progress of humanity with the realization of person-centered health for all.
